

Shadowspawn

Shadowspawn is a Danish death metal band known for their unique blend of groovy and intense soundscapes. With their distinct approach to the genre, they have carved a path for themselves in the extreme music scene.

From the bands emerging in 2013, and with three highly praised releases already, Shadowspawn is a well known act in the metal scene.

In early 2020 the band signed a deal with renowned metal label Emanzipation Productions, promising a bright and brutal future for Shadowspawn's fans and ensuring the release of new albums in the future.

In 2023, Shadowspawn returned with their highly anticipated fourth release, "BLASPHEMICA". This release demonstrates the band's growth and evolution, while still retaining their signature sound. "BLASPHEMICA" pushes the boundaries of their musicality, incorporating elements of groove, darkness, and brutality into a cohesive whole. The album showcases the band's maturity as songwriters and their ability to craft intricate, yet headbanging-worthy compositions.

"BLASPHEMICA" consists of ten groovy death metal tracks, set in an abstract lyrical world of steampunk and religious criticism. Again the band visited Tue Madsen at the renowned Antfarm Studios, for drum recording, mix and mastering.

Shadowspawn has existed since 2013. The band consists of experienced men from the early Danish death metal scene, including well-known forces from, among others, Sacrificial, The Petulant and Cinerator.

"Shadowspawn delivers an amazing live experience, with their energetic performance and technical skills creating an intense atmosphere that captivates the audience from the first riff. Their experience playing at festivals and supporting bigger bands has honed their performance, and they know exactly how to engage and impress a wide audience with heavy, dynamic metal."
